CALL FOR RESEARCH PARTICIPANTS

Are you a teacher who creates a learning environment where African-American / LatinX students experience success?

Culturally Responsive Teaching in Today's Technology Enhanced Classrooms

I am looking for teachers who:

- Have at least 3+ years of teaching.
- Have at least 25% Af-Am OR combined 25% Af-Am and LatinX students in their classroom.
- Teach 6-12th grade in a public school.
- Incorporate culturally responsive practices into your lesson plans.
- Use technology to teach students and feel comfortable using technology.

After an initial survey, I would like to virtually interview you twice to learn about your teaching experiences, how you incorporate culturally responsive practices, and how you use technology in your classroom. I will also ask you to share some of your lesson plans and discuss them with me.

My hope is that this study will help teachers to create transformative learning experiences to close achievement gaps for African-American and LatinX students.

Contact Loyola University Chicago EdD Candidate Elissa Frazier at 773-217-8682 or ewestfrazier@luc.edu

Are you a teacher who creates a learning environment where African-American / LatinX students experience success?